All Kids Bike
Proud to have become a National Ambassador for All Kids Bike, a national movement led by the Strider Education Foundation to place Kindergarten PE Learn-To-Ride Programs into public schools for free, using donations from individuals, businesses and organizations. Here locally, my personal goal is to have all the schools in Park City trained and outfitted during 2020. As a life-long two wheeler, I believe this will help drive fitness, balance, self-confidence & higher grades in these schools and help fuel the next generation of bicyclists and motorists.

I am very proud to announce that I have been asked to be on the Ambassador Board for a fantastic charity program called All Kids Bike - I am looking forward to helping to create an entire generation of riders. We will get well ahead of the motorcycle industry by teaching all kids to ride.

Little man pulls at my heart strings daily. I'm stoked to be an ambassador for the All Kids Bike movement. The idea behind this is to teach every child in America how to ride a bike in PE class. It will be at no charge to schools. Check it out and big thanks to Strider Bikes for always keeping Cruise dialed in on his Strider!

Moto-journalist Marilyn Stemp has announced her support as a national ambassador for All Kids Bike

All Kids Bike is a national movement with a mission to teach every child in America how to ride a bike in kindergarten PE class. The movement, led by the Strider Education Foundation, places Learn-To-Ride Programs into public schools at no cost to the school, using donations from individuals, businesses, and organizations.

"As motorcycles sales have declined, the motorcycle industry has done too little too late, trying to sell motorcycles that are way too expensive to a generation of digital thinkers. Through All Kids Bike, Strider is one company that's actively encouraging people to ride, and from an early age. I'm delighted to support that initiative." Said Stemp.

Ambassadors play a vital role in raising awareness for the All Kids Bike campaign. A primary goal of the campaign is to collect 1 million signatures from fans in support of the mission. This vast show of public support helps secure the funding from donors that ultimately puts programs into schools.

Marilyn Stemp was nominated as a National Ambassador because of her commitment to getting kids on the right track toward a healthy lifestyle by introducing them to the fun and excitement of riding a bike. Stemp stated, "Motorcycle riders know the joy of being on two wheels and immersed in the outdoors. For many of them, that pleasure started with a bicycle, something many children, especially in inner cities, aren't even exposed to. Getting bikes into school curriculums can change that."

"Bicycling is much more than a simple recreational activity for children. It's a proven, lifelong game changer." Says Ryan McFarland, All Kids Bike Founder. "Together, we have the power to chart a better, healthier course for our children's future. And it's as simple as riding a bike."

Kids and Bikes, Join the Movement

I still remember when I got my first two-wheeler. An hour later I begged my dad to take the training wheels off. That bike and the ones that followed were my "freedom machines."

Until I heard a presentation by Strider's Ryan McFarland, I always thought that learning to ride a bicycle is something that every American kid does.

I'm proud to be a National Ambassador for the non-profit All Kids Bike™ movement - helping kids get off the couch, away from their digital games, and outdoors peddling. Every donation propels these kids forward toward greater success. @AllKidsBike
